Frank checked the brushes in the bath and the dresses in the chest. Flint looked in the boxes on the shelf. “The glasses are not in the boxes,” said Flint. Then they looked in the bags on the pegs. Flint was rushing back to the den when he looked up at Mom. Then he smiled. “Mom, the glasses are on top of your bun!” he said. Mom felt the bun. The Insect Hunt

Frank and Flint went on an insect hunt with Dad. Frank had a net, and Flint had a basket with a lid. They hunted on the hilltop. A cobweb was stuck on a log, but no insects were in it. Then Flint yelled, “A cricket!” Frank swung the net, and the cricket jumped into it. They set the cricket in the basket and shut the lid. “It is a fantastic insect!” said Frank. But inside the basket, the cricket did not jump. “Is it upset?” said Flint. “I think it misses the grass,” said Frank. Flint lifted the lid, and the cricket jumped off into the grass. One sunrise, the eggs began to crack open. Two robin chicks were in the nest! The big robin was not there. “Is it lost?” said Milo.
